

FROM THE MUSEUM TO THE CLASSROOM

Attentional Practices and the Future of Pedagogy in the Humanities

Friday, November 15th | 12 to 6pm at Wesleyan University

Join us for a workshop exploring how experiences of practical aesthesis and attention to works of art may be beneficial for classroom teaching in the Humanities. We will consider what it would mean to move from an interpretive framework to an experiential one in relation to the texts that are foundational for undergraduate learning.

For more information, contact:

Sonali Chakravarti, Associate Professor of Government, at schakravarti@wesleyan.edu.

